One of the very best remedies that can be applied to a wound made by a rusty nail, and which is almost infallible in its cure, is to take a quantity of peach leaves, beat them to a pulp, and then apply them to the wound and in a very short time an improvement will be noted in the wound. Several persons have tried this remedy when all others have failed to give relief, and it was beneficial in its results. At this season of the year, when so many persons are injured by tramping on a rusty nail this remedy should be noted. —Scientific American

J. H. Seid is just completing a large barn, 50 feet square. It is well arranged and well built. Mr. Seid has, besides this barn and his old one, a sheep barn 24x48 feet, hog sheds, granaries, a carriage house, etc. He has a large two story dwelling house, built two or three years ago, and is getting his farm in good shape for him to take comfort. He has some fine Poland China hogs that he is fitting up to take to the state fair. Some of them are hard to beat anywhere. Mr. Seid is one of our best and most prosperous farmers. He has thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, and is making a success in all of them.

Last Friday evening W. E. Seid came very near having his threshing outfit burned. He was threshing oats for a man named Banks, on Mrs. Chamberlain's farm west of Brownville. They had closed down for the night and started home, when some one discovered that the machine was on fire. The fire had caught in the oats near the feeder. Fortunately it was discovered before it had made much headway and was extinguished with comparatively little damage, although the feeder and a large belt were badly burned, besides other parts of the outfit. The loss will probably amount to about $200. Very little of the oats was burned. It is not known how the fire caught.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded; when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves, and causes the glands to secrete mucus instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called catarrh of the stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. —J. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by W. W. Keeling.

Reveals a Great Secret

It is often asked how such startling cures, that puzzle the best physicians are effected by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Here's the secret.
